One day Dawn, the little puppy, was playing on the lawn. She saw such beautiful butterflies that flew around. One even landed on her paw. She was so busy playing, that she was beginning to get a bit tired. She went to crawl into her bed, and with a big yawn, she fell asleep. Her owner was at the bottom of the garden. He wanted to draw a beautiful picture, because he was an artist.

His name was Paul. He always drank a cup of tea while he drew. He loved drawing the autumn leaves. When he needed to pause from his drawing, he would pick up his cup of tea, take a sip, and put it back on the saucer. His favourite lunch was potato chips with tomato sauce. He always played with Dawn at the end of the day and practised the tricks he had taught her.

She would catch the ball and bring it back when she heard him call her. Sometimes she would try to play with the small cats that sat on the wall. Dawn loved playing in the tall grass, and would watch the leaves fall from the tree. She had a small blanket in her bed, for all the colder days.

Paul would pull the blanket over Dawn, when it was bed time, and they would both go to bed, with their hearts full of love.
