

Ideas for e-mail writing:

Write an email to another learner who is the same age as you but that lives in another country. Consider the following:

- · What interesting things can you tell them about where you live?
- · What are your hobbies and talents?
- · What questions do you have to ask them?

Write an email to a friend about going to high school next year. Consider the following:

- · What are you excited about or looking forward to?
- · What makes you nervous? What worries you?
- Write an email to your teacher or family member about your remote learning experience. Consider the following:
- · Express your surprise or shock or excitement about not being at school.
- · What are the positives about being at home?
- · What are the negatives about being at home?
- · What questions do you have to ask them?

REMEMBER - Write a rough draft first on paper or notes on your iPad or in word on your computer. Then write it on an actual email. Check you have the correct email address.
